coal improves the quality of raw material base by bringing down the total ash content in the coal which helps in achieving greater coke strength and higher productivity of the blast furnaces of the steel plants.

(c) In terms of quality even though TISCO have captive mines of otherwise good quality of Coking coal, deposits of coking coal in India are generally of low grade in as much as they have higher ash contents as compared to international standards. Only with the use of imported coal as a sweatner in the blend with the indigenous coal, the desired quality of coke for usage in the Blast Furnace is obtained. TISCO also thus have to import coal for blending with indigenous coal as a technological necessity.

Import of Foodgrains

1158. SHRI BASUDEB MOHAPATRA: Will the Minister of FOOD AND CIVIL SUPPLIES be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that Government propose to import foodgrains in the current year in spite of good harvest;

(b) if so, what are the reasons thereof:

(c) how much quantity of foodgrains were imported during last three years and from which country; and

(d) the total amount paid for such import?

THE DEPUTY MINISTER IN THE MINISTRY OF FOOD AND CIVIL SUPPLIES (SHRI D. L. BAITHA): (a) and (b) The buffer stocks built up assiduously over the last few years through high level of procurement and some imports, were drawn down to quite low levels due to effect of the drought of 1987 resulting in low procurement and high distribution for PDS and other programmes. The Government is keeping a close watch on the food situation of the country and if required, may go in for further imports.

(c) and (d) During 1986-87 and 1987-88, no wheat or rice was imported. During 1988-89, a quantity of 20.11 lakh tonnes of wheat from USA at an approximate FOB cost of US$ 243.36 million and 6.84 lakh tonnes of rice from Thailand at an approximate FOB cost of US $ 166.76 million were imported.
